WHILE OUR BRIGHTEST ECONOMISTS FAILED, "NOBODY" GEORGE MULLEN WARNED US

The media and even Henry Kissinger are praising the new Obama economic team. Why isn't the media critically examining these appointments like Frank Rich does in the New York Times, especially since most of them, save Paul Volcker, were the architects of the mess we're in? (Robert Rubin, Timothy Geithner, Larry Summers). Read Frank Rich's column "The Brightest Aren't Always the Best" here:

Also read how Citi Bank and Robert Rubin, who is on Obama's economic team and was President Clinton's economic advisor, are being sued by the Federal government for devising a Ponzi Scheme which has wrecked the American financial system - here: http://www.nypost.com/seven/12042008/business/ponzi_scheme_at_citi_142511.htm

How come none of our great economists, and none on the Obama economic team that I am aware of, forewarned us about the impending bursting of our financial bubble economy? Apparently few people listened.

One of the very early people to warn us about the dire situation with our financial system was a Mr. George Mullen, a "mere" stock broker who wrote two great articles in the San Diego Union Tribune in 2005 and 2006. Mullen is an oil painting artist who is a political independent. He has written several books on Iraq and our financial crisis. His article "Welcome to the Bubble Economy" is the best I have read on the topic. His two famous articles published in the San Diego Union Tribune in 2005 and 2006 are linked here:

So much for economists and journalists!

Because Obama is not experienced in running anything. No executive experience he is running like a chicken with his head cut off. Since he didn't know how to lead, he had to find people that knew how to run an administration. That's why you get all of the ex-clinton people/and others that have been in Washington before despite his promise to begin fresh.
